

Eighth Data Protection Principle - International transfers

International transfers means that personal data may not leave the Cayman Islands unless the destination offers a level of protection that is on a broad level the same as here or adequate safeguards are in place to protect the information. This prevents data from being transferred abroad with the goal of skirting the strong Cayman data protection laws.

If you're interested in learning more about this topic, visit our guidance for organisations.